THE NEWSLETTER OF THE COOLEY-KEEGAN BRANCH OF COMHALTAS CEOLTÓIRÍ ÉIREANN

From the Chairman

A Chairde,

The Emerald Extravaganza was a huge success! Money is still coming in and bills are being paid so there isn't a final tally yet. But that isn't why I say it was a success. It was successful because of the people. All the CCE volunteers who cleaned, sewed, and painted for long hours to prepare the building; all the volunteers who shopped, worked on the program, gathered items for auction, arrived at 7AM to hang up decorations, move tables and chairs, fix the center pieces, coordinate flowers, run a CCE slide show, worked during the event and much, much more; all the people who stayed and cleaned up afterwards and all those who bought tickets (five tables were sold to CCE members). I thank you all for coming forward and making the event as special as it was. Without your help, it couldn't have been all that it was.

This event brought many people from the Irish community together to support the importance of the Irish Cultural Center and the work that C.C.E. does. To top it all off everyone had a great time.

March is "All things Irish" so check for plenty of opportunities to get together and celebrate.

Slán,
Kasey

Music Lessons for Kids

Have friends asked you about how or where their kids can learn about Irish music? Nieces, nephews or others interested in playing music, but not sure how to start? This month marks the beginning of two separate sections of the new "Introduction to Irish Music through the Tin Whistle" class, which meets one evening each week for six weeks, and is geared toward children in 2nd through 6th grade at school.

One section will be meeting on Wednesdays in San Francisco (starting March 28th), while another will be running on Thursdays in Berkeley (starting the 22nd). Both are led by excellent musicians and teachers, and class sizes will be kept quite small to ensure individual attention -- so be sure to sign up early to reserve your spot! The Cooley Keegan Branch of Comhaltas Ceoltóirí Éireann sponsors a new class in San Francisco:

“An Introduction to Irish Music through the Tin Whistle”

March 28th through May 2nd, 2007

This six-session class, intended for children in grades 2 through 6, will be held Wednesdays from 7:00 to 8:00 pm, at the United Irish Cultural Center (2700 45th Ave. at Sloat, in San Francisco).

The class will be taught by Conall O’Raghallaigh, a Dublin native who has been playing traditional Irish music on both the uilleann pipes and the whistle for over a decade, and is past president of the San Francisco Pipers Club.

Background: Traditional Irish music, like the folk music in most cultures, has been passed down through many generations primarily by ear, with children growing up immersed in the rhythms and melodies at people’s homes, dances and social occasions. This class will teach the fundamentals of traditional Irish music through the tin whistle, the simplest and most widespread of Irish instruments, and will provide a valuable foundation for learning Irish music on any instrument.

Each class will include some discussion/demonstration of different rhythms, learning the musical scales on the whistle, learning of simple tunes by ear, and perhaps playing of tunes on other instruments (flute, violin, possibly others) that students may be learning.

What will students know / be able to do after the 6 week class?

- Play one or two different tunes from memory
- Identify the beat and differentiate jigs from reels when listening to them
- Be able to “read” the sequence of notes in a tune from the “spots” diagram
- Know the “D” scale, and “G” scale on the whistle

Cost: $ 95 for the six-week class (some scholarships available based on need)
(only $ 85 each if you register with another student – bring along a friend or sibling!)
These include cost of a Clarke “Sweetone” whistle (key of “D”), and all written and recorded materials distributed through class.

Enrollment: To assure individual attention, enrollment will be limited to 8 students, so enroll early to reserve your space! To register, or to ask questions about the class, please email Michael Riemer at: riemer@ce.berkeley.edu, or call him at 510-548-4727.
